

A photograph of a bald eagle perched on a tree branch. The eagle is silhouetted against a cloudy sky. The background shows a landscape with trees and mountains under a grey, overcast sky.

We owe our citizens as people, to reconcile assumptions and beliefs.

You are more than a death of innocence; you are more than constant defeat

Mourn your loss and civil death, grieve the abandonment in society.

But you are more...

See the resilience in nature.

Rise and claim life's fill.

Chase away death's intimate pull and longing for someone to mourn you.

You must provide that hand-up, a sacred text lift.

Sharing life is a purpose.

Create; Art, Music and Dance.

Healing can be found in the circle of our lives

Come home